

Kewill Appoints Asia Deputy COO

---

By: Staff Journalist, Singapore

Published: Sep 09, 2008

Asia - Patrick Chua has been appointed deputy chief operating officer for Kewill's Asia-Pacific operations.

Patrick moves to Kewill from his position as CEO of Autoscan Technology group of companies, a leading supply chain management and RFID solutions provider in Asia, during which he developed the ATLAS-SCM, which received the merit award at the Asia Pacific ICT awards in 2007.

"We extend a warm welcome to Patrick," said Wong Sing Lam, managing director of Kewill's Asia Pacific operations. "He comes to us with a strong network of customers and partners in this region and a wealth of knowledge and expertise in successfully delivering many supply chain improvement projects. We believe he will be instrumental in ensuring the continued growth of Kewill in the Asia-Pacific region."

Chua said he was attracted to Kewill as one of the key providers of global trade and logistics solutions worldwide. "I will be responsible for driving Kewill's Asia Pacific operations to the next level, building on the solid foundation and momentum achieved by the Kewill Asia Pacific team over the last 20 years," he said.

Extracted from Procurement Asia